Day two

Today's route heads south exploring the rural side of the Cotswolds and provides you the opportunity to become one with nature as you head towards the ancient stone sights of the Rollright Stones. Here you can take time to walk among these historic monuments and soak in the ambience of past descendants and traditions.

We head to the town of Hook Norton, which is home to a Victorian Brewery. Here you can visit and take a guided tour of the brewery and sample the locally made produce. During the visit you may also see the famous brewery dray horses as they continue an age old tradition of delivering produce to the nearby taverns. For folks wishing for a shorter day today there is an option to miss the brewery.

For lunch we arrive at the 'Cotswold hub' of Chipping Norton, which offers a variety of shops, taverns, restaurants and cafes to tickle your fancy.

In the afternoon there are culinary delights waiting for you in the delightful village of Kingham and the award-winning Daylesford Farm shop, café and deli.

We end the day riding off road through the countryside in Adlestrop Manor Grounds as you amble your way back into Moreton-in-Marsh.
